Subject: RE: Byrne Criminal Justice Innovation Program (due April 29) -- Follow up

Good evening, my suggestion is that we plan a meeting to discuss this towards the end of 2018, maybe just after Thanksgiving, as the general gist of the grant does not change that much. That will allow for a 5 month planning process.

All,

After our planned conference call last Thursday (those on the call were: Director Rallings, Brona, Janine, Dr. Madden, Julie Sanon and myself) we all agreed that Julie Sanon and Julie Nations would talk, which they did on Monday. Also, Janine would send data with possible recommendations.

With this, we agreed we would decide whether to move forward for this funding (10 projects to be selected with up to $1M for each over 3 years).

After the above conversations, it is consensus from those in discussion that we are not quite ready to move forward with this Byrne proposal, but believe we clearly could be next year at this time. As was recommended, we will anticipate meeting on this, as well as other related safety matters in our growing partnerships.

Thanks to all for considering and making a good decision to not go after the Byrne funding this time, but possibly/likely next year!

Good morning!

As this is such a competitive grant, I don't know that we can pull together a winning proposal starting only 45 days before the grant proposals are due. That said, I'm happy to participate in a call to explore the possibilities.

Subject: Byrne Criminal Justice Innovation Program (due April 29) -- Conference call next week?

Importance: High

Good morning, all,

The Byrne Criminal Justice Innovation funding program just came out. Agape has interest in pursuing /being a part of, especially with our work in Frayser through our Two Generation (2Gen) model serving in 3 primary apartment communities: Pershing Park, Corning Village and Todd Creek apartments. Our ultimate goal is poverty-reduction.

I write to you, as we discussed a couple of years ago when this came out, to see of interest in collaborating with a wholistic approach to crime, using a 2Gen cradle to career, place-based model. We clearly know Agape cannot do all, by any means, and would be interested in key partners, like yourselves. If interested in talking further, I'd love to set up a meeting/conference call to have a first discussion. If others are considering this funding, would love to know that as well...as we want what best positions Memphis and our community needs and strategies.

Clearly, key partners and drivers of this work include: Crime Commission, MPD, DA's Office, Safeways and Family Safety Center (leaders from each are on this email, knowing that clearly there are many others who could be in the conversation, if this moves forward).

Below is a brief summary we received on this funding. Proposals are due April 29 and only 10 will be awarded with up to $1M over 3 years...very competitive!

If there is interest, Agape has a grant writer who does federal proposals, which we are glad to offer.

Please review and give me your thoughts, and consideration to have a meeting/conference call, even next week.

Byrne Criminal Justice (BJA) seeks applications for the Byrne Criminal Justice Innovation Program. This funding op has a focus program of "leading efforts to enhance the capacity of local and tribal communities to effectively target and address significant and violent crime issues through collaborative cross-sector approaches that are linked with broader neighborhood development goals. The goal of BCJI is to reduce crime, increase trust, and improve community safety as part of a comprehensive strategy to advance neighborhood revitalization. Through a broad cross-sector partnership team, including neighborhood residents, BCJI grantees target neighborhoods with hot spots of violent and serious crime and employ data-driven, cross-sector strategies to accomplish this goal." "Due to similarities in geographic targets and the inextricable link between housing, education, health, economic development, and public safety, applicants should develop a plan to coordinate CBCR with other existing community and regional revitalization efforts that may be located in their community—such as ED's Promise Neighborhoods, 11 HUD's Choice Neighborhoods, 12 USDA's Stronger Economies Together (SET) regions, HHS's Community Health Center 13 grants, and/or Treasury's Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFI) 14 funds,—whenever these resources are directed to locations proposed to be targeted with a grant under this solicitation."
